Upcoming Events

- April 26-30 – Far Away. Joan wakes up in the middle of the night and sees something she's not meant to see. She's convinced to keep a secret that will forever alter the course of her life. Caryl Churchill's brief and chilling Far Away paints a not so-far-away future where fear of "the other" rules supreme, and beauty, politics, and violence strike an uneasy kinship. Equal parts humorous and horrifying, we are drawn into a fantastical world where even the birds and rivers are at war. Tickets are on sale at the Harvard Box Office. For more information and show times, please visit tdm.fas.harvard.edu. Farkas Hall.

- Wednesday, April 26, 6PM – "A Thousand Dead Snow Geese: The Matter of the Non-Human in the Age of Humans." The Environment Forum at the Mahindra Center presents Timothy LeCain, Montana State University; and Center for Advanced Study, Oslo, Norway. Timothy LeCain is author of The Matter of History: How Things Create the Past. Convened by Robin Kelsey, Dean of Arts and Humanities, and Ian Jared Miller, Professor of History. Free and open to the public; seating is limited. Learn more at: mahindrahumanities.fas.harvard.edu. Sever Hall 113.

- Sunday, April 30, 12-4PM – ARTS FIRST at the Harvard Art Museums: Harvard College Film Festival. As part of ARTS FIRST, the Harvard Art Museums will screen the winning films in this year's student-run Harvard College Film Festival, which provides undergraduates across the world with an opportunity to create and submit films to be screened, judged, and awarded for creative excellence and powerful perspective. Entertainment executive Susanne Daniels will deliver the keynote address. Admission is free. Harvard Art Museums, Menschel Hall, Lower Level.

Safety Notice

To contact an FDO representative in the event of a serious, non-academic emergency, please call your proctor, or the Harvard University Police at (617) 495-1212, or, on campus, 5-1212. Safety and other emergency messages are displayed as soon as possible on the News and Notices section of the College home page at college.harvard.edu.

Summer Storage

Looking for a place to store your stuff this summer? You can check with your upperclass House to see if they have a storage area in their basement. Some Houses allow students to store their belongings over the summer on a first-come, first-served basis.

Another option is collegeboxes.com. Sign up online, order boxes, and select a pickup time. Enjoy free pickup when you move out, secure storage space over the summer, and free delivery when you move back this fall. For students moving to Lowell or Winthrop House, the College will pay up to $180.50 for storage through this site.

Opportunities for Freshmen

Join the Harvard Wears Denim Campaign. Build allyship and raise social consciousness across Harvard University. This University-wide campaign visibly supports survivors of sexual assault by wearing denim. Becoming a Solidarity Sponsor is an acknowledgment of the role we each play in confronting rape culture, holding ourselves accountable for our words and actions, and creating trauma-aware spaces for survivors and allies. E-mail care.harvard@gmail.com to become a sponsor! Wednesday, April 26, 12-2:30PM, Plaza.

Earn $18/hour as a BSC Peer Tutor! Come to an informational lunch on Thursday, April 27, 12-1PM, at the Bureau of Study Counsel, 5 Linden St. Learn about the Peer Tutoring Program, and meet current BSC peer tutors and staff. Pizza and dessert will be served. Students who are eligible to become BSC peer tutors have received an A- or higher in the courses for which they sign up to tutor. If you are interested and are not able to attend, please email us at bsc@fas.harvard.edu, call us at 617-495-2581, or visit us at 5 Linden St. For more information, visit: bsc.harvard.edu.

Become a Course Assistant for the Professional Communication Program for International Teachers and Scholars! The Bok Center is hiring course assistants for the upcoming 2017-2018 academic year. Course assistants give international graduate students an undergraduate perspective on issues related to teaching and academic life at Harvard. They work in Bok courses and seminars to give feedback on both teaching and language skills, and they are also available for one-on-one discussion, teaching, and language practice.

Becoming a course assistant for the ITF program is an excellent opportunity to hone your skills in the following fields: college teaching, graduate student life, and international graduate student experiences; hands-on practice with intercultural communication and the process of language development; and building connections between undergraduate and international graduate student communities for more inclusive and productive classroom experiences. For more information and an application, please visit: bokcenter.harvard.edu. Applications are due Thursday, April 27.

Apply to the SRC Undergraduate Associates Program. The Science, Religion, and Culture Program at Harvard Divinity School is currently accepting applications for the 2017-'18 Undergraduate Associates Program. The program is a one-year, competitive fellowship that provides young scholars an opportunity to work on a research project addressing themes of science, religion, and culture, broadly defined. Undergraduate associates become members of a lively research community and develop their research projects under the guidance of faculty and doctoral students. Associates are expected to attend the biweekly colloquium and present their research at the Science, Religion, and Culture Program's annual symposium. Review of applications begins on Monday, May 15. Applications submitted by Sunday, May 14 are guaranteed full review. To apply, visit: bit.ly/src-ua.
