Opportunities for Freshmen

Spend Your Summer in D.C. with the IOP Summer in Washington Program. The Summer in Washington (SIW) program organizes political and public-service focused events in D.C. over the summer months and is often referred to as the IOP’s “third semester.” It is as an opportunity for students to gain exposure to the broad range of careers and experiences in politics and public service—from meeting with elected officials to visiting polling firms and think tanks—and to create a community for Harvard undergraduates around politics and public service. Open to all Harvard undergraduates living and/or working in Washington D.C., the program also provides opportunities to interact with Harvard alumni, explore Washington, D.C., and connect with peers. There is no application necessary to participate. For a sign-up link, visit: iop.harvard.edu/get-involved/internships-careers.

Staff World Model United Nations 2019. Travel the world, and bring your passion for international relations and diplomacy to the Olympics of Model UN! WorldMUN is an annual conference, organized and staffed by Harvard students, that takes place in a different city around the world each year. The conference draws university students from 100 countries for a week. Previous conferences have occurred in Panama City, Montreal, Rome, and Seoul. No Model UN experience is needed. Applications are due Monday, April 9, at 5PM. For more information on how to apply, email: directorgeneral@worldmun.org.

Volunteer at ARTS FIRST: April 26-29. Get ready for Harvard’s annual explosion of arts, featuring the talents of students and faculty in more than 100 free events that are open to the public. Resources for Freshmen

Bureau of Study Counsel Workshops @ 5 Linden St.:

- Post-Concussion Strategies and Coping Workshop. For students who experience academic, social, or other aftereffects of a concussion. No registration required. Friday, April 13, 12-1PM.

- Difficult Conversations. Trying to figure out the most appropriate language, time, and place to have a delicate, challenging, important, and potentially anxiety-laden conversation? This workshop can help. Register at: bsc.harvard.edu. Friday, April 13, 1-2PM.

- Study @ 5 Linden. Have you discovered the comfortable, distraction-free study space at the Bureau of Study Counsel? Study @ 5 Linden now has expanded hours (Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays, 10AM-4:30PM) and additional space for breaks and brief consultations. Settle into our quiet, cozy study space, and grab a coffee and a snack. When you need a break or a brief conversation, check out the BSC’s new studio/break space in Room 26! Drop-in consultations with BSC academic counselors are available now through exam period (Mondays, 1-2PM; Tuesdays, 2-3PM; and Thursdays, 12-1PM) in the studio space. For a longer, individual conversation with an academic counselor, stop by, or call 617-495-2581.

Professors and Pastries. Join the last session of this semester, featuring: Professor Danielle Allen; Professor Michael Bronski; and Professor Jean Comaroff. Hear from esteemed Harvard faculty in an informal setting about their journeys that brought them to Harvard, what they do, what makes them tick, how they work with students, and advice they have for you. Plus: pastries! Sign up at: apo.college.harvard.edu/event/april-20-professors-and-pastries. Friday, April 20, 4PM, Straus Common Room.

Sexual Literacy. Sexual Literacy is a collaboration between OSAPR and the Center for Wellness and Health Promotion. Our blog addresses the intersections between sexual health and sexual violence, answering student-submitted questions about all topics related to sexual health, relationships, and consent. We post a new answer every Thursday, providing both a "content" (health professional) and a "context" (student) perspective. Read the blog, or submit questions here: sexual-literacy.com.

Meet the Manager

Annenberg’s Timothy-John Graceffa (T.J.) was recently promoted to Sous Chef, and he hosted a Meet the Manager station on Thursday, March 29 to introduce himself to the Annenberg community.
